KIDNAPER CONTACT IS MADE IN HAVANA AS ARMY ENTERS

Government Seeks to Foil Suspected Reds by Arresting Victim's Friends; 3,000 Hunt Abductors.

HAVANA, June 7.—(AP)—The kidnapers of Antonio San Miguel released tonight the bodyguard abducted with the 78-year-old multi-millionaire and sent him to Havana with instructions from the former senator that the $286,000 ransom demanded should be paid.

The bodyguard, Jose Modesto Iglesias, went to the office of one of San Miguel's associates, bearing his letter from the kidnaped man and instructions from the kidnapers on how to make the pay-off.

"Sr. San Miguel is in good shape and he has not suffered much from being held by the kidnapers," said Iglesias.

National police stepped in immediately, however, after confiscating the great pile of bills made ready for the ransom rendezvous, and laid a trap to break up the pay-off by stationing half a hundred officers around the associates' car.

Abandoning his immediate efforts to establish a new contact with the kidnapers, San Miguel's associate said he would first attempt to throw off the police and make the contact later.

Posse Hunts Gang

Three thousand soldiers, police and plainclothes men swarmed into four Havana suburbs as the government marshaled all available forces to ferret out the kidnapers.

Ignoring requests of San Miguel's friends that they withdraw from the case until the aged rail magnate could be ransomed and released, the authorities made ready to search every nook and cranny of four square miles embracing the Vibora, Santos Suarez, Lawton and Jesus Del Monte suburbs.

They continued to detain Pedro Herrera Sotolongo, San Miguel's lawyer, who had, apparently in an effort to forestall payment of the ransom, been Francisco Barias, vice president of the Guantánamo & Western Railway; Dr. Arturo Ojeda, San Miguel's physician; Felipe Martinez, chief clerk at his home, and Simon Arlet, his valet, who was kidnaped with San Miguel and three others and later released to bring word of the ransom demands.

Friends Skeptical

While authorities told friends of those detained they were being held "to protect them against any attack from the kidnapers, other associates of San Miguel said the authorities are determined the ransom shall not be paid.

The new rates apply to all businesses, including stores, offices and small factories, whose consumption is not great enough for them to enter the classification as industrial users. Residence customers are not affected.

The following commercial rate schedule, based on monthly readings, was ordered on meter readings after June 15: Schedule "B" (Small Users).

First 15 kilowatt hours or less, $1.11.

For the next 985 KWH, five cents per KWH.

For the next 1,000 KWH, 4.44 cents per KWH.

For the next 6,000 KWH, 3.33 cents per KWH.

For all over 8,000 KWH, 2.22 cents per KWH.

The foregoing rates are the gross rates.

STATE DEFIES U. S. ON OCONEE BRIDGE

Flat Refusal to Build Ball's Ferry Project Sent to MacDonald.

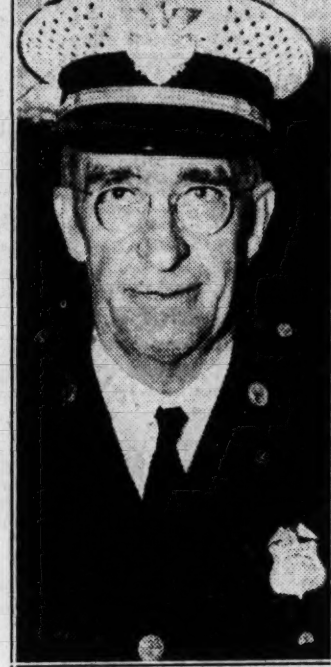

Flat refusal to include Ball's ferry bridge in the $1,500,000 list of federal aid construction projects has been sent to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads in Washington, W. E. Wilburn, chairman of the Georgia highway board, said yesterday.

The list of projects was proposed for early letting and forwarded to Washington several days ago for the bureau's approval.

Wilburn said Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau, insisted by telegram that Ball's ferry bridge, crossing the Oconee river between Wilkinson and Johnson counties, be listed.

"The board refused to do it," the chairman said, "I have not received an indication as to whether the bureau will approve or reject the proposed projects."

Policewomen Fired, Captain To Face Trial

CAPTAIN S. J. ROBERTS.

TWO POLICEWOMEN FIRED FROM FORCE

Captain Roberts Ordered To Face Trial as Result of Pendley Charges.

Mrs. Lora Davis and Mrs. Vannie McDonough, policewomen, were discharged "for the good of the service" and Police Captain S. J. Roberts was ordered to trial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer at a meeting of the police committee last night.

The committee action was the aftermath of a hearing April 28 of charges of favoritism the trio made against Oscar H. Pendley, secretary of the committee, and Chief T. O. Sturdivant. Pendley was accused of granting favors to Ellen Brown, sweetheart of Ralph Jones, convicted burglar and escape artist. Pendley was exonerated.

Mrs. J. P. Howell and Mrs. Mamie Baxter, laid off by the committee about two years ago in an economy drive, were elected to succeed the ousted women.

Policewomen are not under civil service and can be removed at any time. The bureau, however, cannot be abolished because of an amendment to the city charter passed at the last session of the Georgia legislature.

Under Civil Service.
Captain Roberts is under civil service and no action could be taken against him without a trial.

There were reports that the two policewomen will appeal to the grand jury for investigation of the charges against Pendley and that a committee probe by a committee other than the police committee will be sought, but no definite announcement was forthcoming.

The entire police committee membership attended the meeting last night and Councilman Alvin L. Richards was the only member to cast a dissenting ballot. He voted against firing the women and also against preferring charges against Roberts.

Pendley charged the committee members when the deliberations were begun that he was in a peculiar position and that something should be done.

Chief Asks Action.
"With things as they now are I am in the position of keeping a man in duty who was charged with showing favoritism to women prisoners, but who this committee exonerated, and of working departmental members who brought the accusations, but who this committee by its vote showed did not believe. We should do something about it."

Pendley charged the trio with "spreading malicious, premeditated falsehoods in an effort to convict me of a crime." He asserted he believed the "main spring of the whole affair."

Richards said he was convinced the

Court Test Sought on Rule Banning Wine Importation

Georgia's new wine law, banning the sale of "foreign" wines within the confines of the state, as approved under a set of rules issued yesterday by Governor Talmadge, will be tested this afternoon when Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant will arrest one of the many Atlanta retailers engaged in selling wine in order to bring the law into the courts.

Governor Talmadge approved regulations for the sale of wine, submitted to him by Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder. The regulations, in effect, place an embargo on all wines except those produced in Georgia from Georgia products.

Neither the governor nor his commissioner of agriculture explained why he was to enforce the embargo, which leaves it up to county and municipal authorities throughout the state.

FINANCIAL POWERS VOTED FOR LAVAL

New Premier Wins Two Confidence Tests; To Rule by Decree.

PARIS, June 8.—(Saturday).—(AP) Where two governments toppled before him, Premier Pierre Laval won from the chamber of deputies early today emergency financial powers.

The new premier—the third to face the chamber in eight days—wrung decree powers from the chamber to fight off the franc's devaluation by a vote of confidence of 326 to 161.

In an earlier test the first for his newly formed cabinet, the premier had won another overwhelming vote of confidence, the deputies voting, 412 to 137, in his favor on the technical point of postponing all interpellations.

Situation Serious

"The situation is serious," Laval told the chamber in demanding his emergency powers. "The outflow of gold diminished last week but did not cease."

"The budget deficit with the railroad deficit will reach 10,000,000,000 francs this year and the treasury will have to meet a payment of 9,000,000,000."

He promised to defend the parliamentary regime as a "republican institution."

Government heads by Pierre-Etienne Flandin and Fernand Bouisson fell in the chamber on the issue of the financial dictatorship they declared was necessary if the fight to save the franc was to succeed.

The swarthy 52-year-old veteran of the foreign office, wearing his customary white tie, told the chamber the government's financial troubles were the only threat to the franc's solidarity.

Laval Bill Considered.
Business recovery, he declared, is the new government's real aim in the hope that it will restore national financial stability and help balance the budget.

Immediately after the vote of confidence the government's decree powers bill was sent to the chamber for ratification by quick consideration. Prevention of devaluation was given as the sole object in the law, under which parliament authorizes Laval's ministry to take "any measures" up to October 31 "to fight against speculation and defend the franc."

Decrees issued are to be submitted to parliament for ratification before January 1, 1936.

A bitter attack by the socialist deputy, LaGrange, who charged the Bank of France "worked with the government in the campaign of panic" to enforce the bank's "exaction" that the cabinet be accorded full powers, preceded the first vote of confidence.

INCOME TAX DATA SOUGHT IN CITY'S INTANGIBLES DRIVE

Aubrey Milam Will Ask Council to Make Plea to State and Federal Governments.

Atlanta's drive for intangible tax returns yesterday switched to federal and state authorities, and Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of council's finance committee, announced he will ask city council at its next session, June 17, to impound state and federal taxing authorities to make income tax returns available to the municipality.

Joe C. Little, Harry M. Perkinson and Leo Suderth, city tax assessors, asserted that if the city had access even to state returns, that at least $200,000,000 in intangibles and cash money would be added to city digits.

Milam had the backing of other members of the finance committee, and planned to confer today with Councilman Max M. Cuba, chairman of the tax committee, with a view of having Cuba join him in the move.

Acting Mayor Ed A. Gilliam and Thomas K. Glenn, leading Atlanta banker, will discuss the intangible problem at a conference this morning. Glenn was one of the principals in obtaining the agreement to assess intangibles at 15 per cent of their market value as of January 31 and cash at 5 per cent. He believed that $200,000,000 in cash and intangibles would be added to city books, but the total was about $12,000,000 instead.

$23,000,000 Shortage

Failure of the drive to get voluntary returns on intangibles is responsible for a $23,000,000 shortage in the city digits over the anticipations carried in the January finance sheet, and will mean a reduction of about $355,000 in actual receipts unless the shortage is cut down.

Milam also plans to elicit the support of other Georgia cities in the drive to make state returns available and hinted that a nation-wide drive to make federal returns subject to scrutiny of leading cities also will be undertaken.

"It seems to me that hundreds of leading cities of the nation are in the same predicament that Atlanta finds itself," Milam asserted. "The federal government will allow city agents to look at the records, but there is so much red tape that by the time the cities could get the information, it would be too old to be of any real value."

Would Simplify Work.
"If we could see the records as they are in the various state offices, for instance, instead of being forced to go to Washington to do so, it would simplify matters considerably."

"I am convinced of no reason why the state and federal governments—"

BALDWIN NAMED BRITISH PREMIER

MacDonald, Noted Labor Leader, Quits After Six Years and Two Days.

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN.
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
LONDON, June 7.—White-haired Ramsay MacDonald, veteran fighter for peace, stepped out as Great Britain's prime minister today and Stanley Baldwin, who typifies "John Bull" to Americans, stepped in.

The leader of the conservative party, who has been prime minister twice before, lost no time in reconstructing the cabinet in which MacDonald took Baldwin's former place as lord president of the council.

Five new faces appeared in the lineup which retained the "national government" complexion and three former ministers retired, one of them, Sir Edward Hilton Young, outgoing minister of health, to be raised to the peerage.

So smoothly was the cabinet shift accomplished that only four minutes intervened between MacDonald's presentation of his portfolio to King George in his majesty's private apartment at Buckingham palace and Baldwin's arrival to receive the mandate.

Falling health, coupled with eye trouble, led to MacDonald's decision to end six years and two days as prime minister. He smiled broadly as he arrived, in top hat and morning coat, at the palace.

New Ministers in the Baldwin government are:
Captain Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, formerly lord privy seal, an office not of ministerial rank, Eden had been prominently mentioned for the foreign office.

The Marquis of Zetland, secretary for India, a former governor of Bengal, writer and traveler. He is 59 years old.

Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for colonies. Young MacDonald, the retiring prime minister's son, was un-

DONALD RICHBERG.

PRESIDENT URGES CARRIER AGENCY

Transformation of I. C. C. Into Federal Transportation Commission Goal.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Declaring that it is "high time" to clarify the muddled transportation picture President Roosevelt today sent a special message to congress recommending co-ordination of all carriers through expansion of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He also advocated a one-year extension of the emergency railroad transportation act of 1933 and of the office of railroad co-ordinator held by Joseph B. Eastman.

Granting that the time remaining at this session was insufficient to consider adequately the general reorganization of federal transportation agencies, Mr. Roosevelt insisted it should not be delayed beyond the next session.

He proposed that supervision of all land, air and sea traffic be unified in one federal agency through expansion of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He recommended, incidentally, passage by the house of the senate bill for regulation of highway motor carriers.

"It is my hope," he said, "that the Interstate Commerce Commission may, with the addition of the new duties that I have indicated, ultimately become a Federal Transportation Commission with comprehensive powers."

It had been his intention to recommend this strongly to this session of the congress, but the time remaining was so short that he was unable to do so.

"The efforts toward the co-ordination of the railroads and the general improvement of transportation conditions which were begun by the emergency railroad transportation act of 1933, should proceed, and I recommend that the act and the office of co-ordinator be extended for at least another year."

As finally approved by the house,

President Warns Business That Anti-Trust Laws Must Be Observed To Letter In Operation of Voluntary Codes.

LABOR FEDERATION RAP'S 'SURRENDER'

Retirement of NRA Head Is Made Effective June 16, at His Request; White House Acquiesces.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—The house today gave the revised and reduced NRA overwhelming sanction, specifically refusing to remove the president's powers to suspend the anti-trust laws in connection with voluntary codes.

The action, ordered by a vote of 264 to 121, came a few hours after Mr. Roosevelt had asserted that the anti-trust laws would be fully enforced and that all such voluntary business agreements must be in conformity with them.

The resulting situation precipitated some confusion and had the capital guessing.

The swift house passage of the mid-year NRA bill, authorizing extension for 9 1/2 months of a skeleton NRA which will serve as a statistical organization, but leaving the door open to voluntary business agreements, capped a day of fast-breaking developments.

The chief executive gave newspapermen a summary of the social objectives of his administration, asserting its purpose was to "increase the security and the happiness of a larger number of people in all occupations of life in all parts of the country." One aim, he said, was a "greater distribution" of wealth.

An hour or so later the president accepted the resignation of Donald R. Richberg as chief of NRA effective June 16, when the original recovery act was scheduled to expire.

Richberg announced several weeks ago he desired to return to the private practice of law.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope that Richberg remain here "for a short period after June 16, in order to transfer as effectively as possible your duties as chairman to the succeeding administration."

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor which previously had denounced the president's skeleton NRA as a "surrender" by the administration, met to map the future.

As for the anti-trust muddle, the intent of the house was plain enough. It squarely refused to repeal both the authority for presidential approval of the voluntary codes and for lifting the restraints of the anti-monopoly laws.

The house NRA extension resolution definitely left in the law this section: "Section 5. While this title is in effect (or in the case of a license, while Section 4 (A) is in effect) and for 60 days thereafter, any contract, agreement, or license approved, prescribed or issued in effect under this title and any action complying with the provisions thereof taken during such period, shall be exempt from the provisions of the anti-trust laws of the United States."

Representative Vinson, democrat, Kentucky, when asked about this section, replied: "That's still in the law."

As finally approved by the house,

The car, driven by the car, received a broken finger but was otherwise unharmed.

WALLACE SPEAKS AT WOMEN'S MEET

Challenges Industry to Write Consumer Protection Into Its Acta

DETROIT, June 7.—(AP)—Agriculture will go further than industry, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said tonight, and will write consumer protection into its acts.

"We challenge industry to do likewise," he said.

Secretary Wallace's address tonight before the General Federation of Women's Clubs completed a program on which speakers attacked and defended the New Deal's accomplishments and its future.

"If industry will give up its tariff, agriculture will give up its processing tax," Secretary Wallace said.

Warning against hasty change in fundamental laws of the constitution, Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and republican leader, said in speaking for his party in his opinion "We shall have to restore farm conditions and change the steady trend of larger units in business" before the problem is solved.

Dr. Harriet Elliott, of the University of North Carolina, and Dr. Walter G. Bergman, of Detroit, spoke for the democratic and socialist parties. Candidates for whom the delegates will vote Monday follow:

President, Dr. Josephine L. Peirce, of Lima, Ohio; Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla.

First vice president, Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, of Oregon.

Second vice president, Mrs. Walter E. Jones, of North Dakota; Mrs. Walter B. Conly, of New York.

Recording secretary, Mrs. Arch Trawick, of Tennessee; Mrs. J. L. B. Buck, of Virginia; and Mrs. John S. Harvey, of West Virginia.

SUGAR ENTRY QUOTA NEAR HALF-WAY MARK

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—A total of 2,400,644 short tons of sugar, raw value, without final polarization and final outturn adjustments, today was reported by the A. A. A. to have been entered for consumption in the United States during the first five months of 1935 from Cuba, the Philippines, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Hawaii.

This total, 53.9 per cent of the quota for 1935, has been charged against the total of 4,554,019 tons admissible from those areas for 1935.

The amounts entered and charged against the quotas for those areas were reported as follows: Cuba, 938,036 tons; Philippines, 528,542 tons; Porto Rico, 500,500 tons; Hawaii, 424,941 tons; Virgin Islands, 1,025 tons.

In addition to the sugar charged against quotas for Cuba and other insular areas, the A. A. A. said a large part of the sugar which may be admitted from full duty countries was entered or certified for entry the first five months. From these foreign countries, a total of 18,351,295 pounds may be entered during 1935. The A. A. A. reported that already a total of 14,941,022 pounds have been charged against this quota.

Practically all of the countries with the exception of Mexico were reported to have exhausted their quotas for 1935.

BOY HANGS HIMSELF DOING COWBOY TRICKS

LEBANON, Tenn., June 7.—(AP)—Playing cowboy cost the life of Lester Minton, 13. He hanged himself accidentally while doing tricks with a lasso.

The boy spent yesterday morning working in the fields with his father, Ed Minton, and was given the afternoon off to play.

Taking a rope his father had bought for him to use as a lasso, Lester began trying to emulate cowboys he had seen in the movies and read about in western stories.

Several hours later his body was found hanging by a rope within two feet of the barn floor. The rope had caught over a rafter.

BARRYMORE, PROTEGE ARRIVE IN NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., June 7.—(AP)—John Barrymore and three women, including Elaine Barrie, his protegee in the radio field—arrived at Newark airport by plane today.

Barrymore flew from Havana after a cruise down the coast in his yacht. He said he returned "because I have work to do."

Scaffa Indicted.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—The federal grand jury handed up two indictments today charging Noel Charles Scaffa, private detective, with perjury and conspiracy to violate the stolen property act in connection with the return of $150,000 worth of jewels which had been stolen in Miami, Fla.

NORTHEAST GEORGIANS CONFER WITH COCKE

Work-Relief Director Holds Conference for Gainesville Area

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—Erie Cocke, state director of the National Emergency Council, held a conference here this afternoon with representatives from eight counties in this section with reference to the administration of the work-relief act in this area.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced that no definite plans were made but that each of the representatives had discussed the projects for his county.

Miss Gay Shepperson, state relief administrator for eight counties in this area, was also present at the conference.

At the annual meeting tonight of the chamber of commerce, Mr. Cocke was the principal speaker and outlined the routine to be followed in administering work-relief funds in the state and explained how applications for local projects should be filed.

He stated the first requisite of a project is that it must be useful and second, it must provide jobs for the unemployed. He said data and information are being compiled at present and expressed the opinion that no projects would be selected before some time in July.

Cocke explained that it will be the function of the state agency to confer and advise with local bodies in selecting projects.

M. T. Grimes, manager of the Copee Manufacturing plant, presided at the Chamber of Commerce meeting and Judge A. C. Wheeler introduced Cocke.

Those present at the conference this afternoon and the county they represented were:

Banks county, J. G. B. Logan, J. A. McCoy, R. L. Sullivan, Young Drake, E. M. Walton, Barrow, La. Flanagan; Stevens, George Bailey, W. R. Rothel, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stover; Gwinnett, W. R. Hurst, F. P. Dover, T. L. Harris, Quil Salmon; Morgan, J. P. Davidson, Charles Leonard, W. L. Allison; Jackson, Frank Holden, J. C. Turner, H. W. Kiser, D. T. Whitely, Hall, O. A. McDermid, J. B. Woodcock, Bibb Cox.

COMPTON CO-EDITOR OF SAVANNAH NEWS

Appointment of Editorial Writer to New Post Announced by Jenkins

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—Appointment of Edward C. Compton as co-editor of the Savannah News has been announced here by Herschel V. Jenkins, president and editor.

Mr. Compton has been editorial writer of the Morning News for 15 years, leaving the local staff of the paper for those duties when Thomas Gamble severed his editorial connection upon being elected mayor of Savannah.

The new associate editor has had wide experience in newspaper work in this country and abroad. He was once city editor of the Tokyo Times, in Japan, and held a similar post on the Hilo Daily Tribune in Hawaii.

Mr. Compton worked on the Miami Daily News before coming to Savannah. He was for five years, 1912 to 1917, managing editor and owner of the Coshocton, Ohio, Times-Age.

'CRIME INSTITUTE'

U. S. Attorney General Would Train Local Police

STAMFORD, Conn., June 7.—(AP)—A four-fold expansion program, by which the justice department will help to train local police and prison officers at a national "crime institute," was outlined tonight by Attorney General Cummings in a speech at the tercentenary of the First Congregational church.

The plans outlined called for: Opening a scientific training school for selected personnel from state and metropolitan police forces, probably this summer.

Similar training for non-federal prison officials by the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Submission to congress of a plan for a federal bureau of crime prevention to co-ordinate and direct national efforts.

Use of this bureau and the criminal division of the justice department to train United States attorneys, marshals and commissioners.

WIDOW OF KENNEDY OPPOSES DEAN PLEA

JACKSON, Miss., June 7.—(AP)—The widow of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, who was allegedly poisoned by a whisky highball served him by his clinical associate, Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, of Greenwood, today appealed to Governor Sennett Conner not to pardon her husband's alleged slayer as the chief executive concluded taking of informal testimony on a pardon petition.

Dr. Dean, confined to a bed in the Leflore county jail at Greenwood, awaiting removal to Parchman prison, where she has been sentenced to spend the remainder of her life, has been unable to attend the hearing, the last hope left to her for freedom.

BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT OPENS TODAY AT ROME

Speakers' Contest Will Be Feature of First Session of Young People.

ROME, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—The first of two summer encampments to be sponsored by the Baptist Young People's Union in Georgia is scheduled to open here tomorrow night and continue until next Saturday.

On Saturday of next week, the second encampment is to begin; it also will extend for one week. Both encampments are to open with banquets.

About 400 young people from all sections of Georgia are expected to attend the two camps, Edwin S. Preston, state secretary of Baptist training union work, said in Atlanta. A faculty of 40 drawn from six states is to instruct those attending in various phases of church, Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. work.

The finals of a state better speakers' contest for Baptist young people are to be held here Sunday afternoon. The contestants, all winners of regional and local contests, are Louis Blanks, Macon; Miss Martha Talbert, Brinson; Miss Monnette Hook, Miss Lillian Howard, Canton; Miss Merle Wallace, Atlanta; and Miss Dorothy Crumley, Chicago.

ATHENS SUMMER TERM EXPECTS 1,500 PUPILS

Many Reservations Made for 11-Week Session Opening Wednesday.

ATHENS, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—T. W. Reed, registrar of the University of Georgia, estimated today that more than 1,500 persons would attend the university summer school opening next Wednesday.

A total of 1,450 attended the school last summer, he said.

The business manager's office reported that reservations of dormitory rooms have been "unusually high," 350 such reservations having been received in one day.

The school will open two days after the closing of the regular school term and will continue for 11 weeks.

Mailing of Poisoned Cake Charged to Toccoa Woman

TOCCOA, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—A woman with having mailed a poisoned cake, Lola Pulliam, local colored woman, was bound over to the federal grand jury after a preliminary hearing before Federal Commissioner J. Alton Hosh in Gainesville. She was released today on $500 bond.

The cake was mailed to Roy Cook, colored, who became suspicious of it because it contained no return address. He threw it out to his chickens. Thirty of his 30 chickens were dead next morning and an analysis by the federal pure food department showed that each fowl had eaten enough arsenic to kill 10 human beings.

TALMADGE 'HANDS OFF' OVER 'UNEMPLOYABLES'

Governor Refers to Split With Washington When Asked About State Aid.

Governor Eugene Talmadge adopted a "hands-off" policy yesterday in the matter of relief for "unemployables" in Georgia.

"Those people in Washington notified the world several months ago I had nothing to do with relief," Talmadge replied when asked if the state could assist disabled persons the FERA turned back to the communities June 1.

The governor had reference to the split between himself and Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, which resulted in a divorce between Talmadge and the government's relief setup in this state.

There are no state funds available, nor did the last legislature provide for the poor who were on FERA rolls in March when the general assembly adjourned.

"Unemployables" are classed as dependents mentally or physically unable to work.

Since they were dropped from FERA rolls last week the most serious problem arose in Atlanta, where charity was called on to support approximately 10,000 additional persons.

The administration in Washington made $15,000 available until suitable arrangements could be made locally and Miss Gay B. Shepperson, administrator of relief in this state, turned a quantity of canned meats and a surplus of other food to the city and Fulton county.

Other cities over the state were reported meeting the situation without great difficulty.

Affairs of administering federal relief in Georgia were completely removed from Talmadge's jurisdiction on April 19 when the setup was changed from the FERA to the FERA, following a verbal tilt between the governor and Hopkins.

HATHCOCK IS ELECTED GATE CITY COUNCILOR

Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the municipal court, was elected councilor of Gate City council, Junior Order of American Mechanics, at the semi-annual elections Thursday night.

Famous Evangelist Welcomed to Atlanta

Gipsy Smith is shown at the left on his arrival yesterday at the Terminal station for his revival here. James A. Morton, executive secretary of the Atlanta Christian Council, is in the center, and Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, right. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Gipsy Smith Sr. Salutes Atlanta As He Arrives for Revival Series

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Pastor Druid Hills Baptist Church.

"Well, well, upon my word, if this isn't the old Atlanta spirit in its truly unique form—think of busy men, as you surely must be, turning aside from your important tasks to meet a stranger come to town," asserted Gipsy Smith Sr., the old Gipsy himself, as he stepped from the Piedmont Limited Friday afternoon to be greeted by a dozen or more prominent Atlantans.

"And Betty, my own little granddaughter in America, comes down to meet granddaddy; say, but this is just about too much for the old Gipsy."

Miss Betty Smith is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Gipsy Smith Jr. She had come down with her mother to join in the welcome to her distinguished grandfather.

Reaching out his stout right arm to shake hands with the battery of cameramen, who had formed a front-line offensive at the gate for the first photographs of the visitor upon arrival in Atlanta, Mr. Smith remarked:

"We read in the scriptures, gentlemen, that when the Master was here in the world, He was sometimes prevented from some of His intentions by the 'press,' but it is my happy experience with Atlanta newspapers that they are always helping forward the cause of religion. I am very glad to meet you, shoot!"

Won Admiration.

Of course, the Gipsy had won everybody's admiration and affection by his wholesome manner of shaking hands, ready conversation and surpassing kindness. Up at the check room where his baggage was being transferred to the hotel, he personally greeted every member of the staff, turning away from prominent ministers and laymen to talk with messenger boys and taxi drivers.

"This weather? Do you mean that you mind bright sunshine like this? Surely you do not expect me to agree with any of you who may be worrying about weather like this. I have marveled at your blue skies and glorious sunshine on previous visits to Atlanta, but this afternoon pleases me as rarely a day in June has been able to do."

"Now tell me just this one thing before you break away, are you happy over the prospect of having an old-fashioned meeting here in Atlanta? Yes, I see you are. God bless you each and all, and all whom you may represent. Tell the people as you go that the old Gipsy is here to serve—to serve as the Father may direct. We may have three weeks of fellowship, if only we look for Him for guidance and power."

Praises Ramsey MacDonald.

Asked for a comment about his native England, Mr. Smith's always bright eyes all but filled with tears as he commented upon Ramsey MacDonald's resignation today, due to failing health. He spoke enthusiastically of MacDonald's courageous leadership of the coalition party, formed at the request of the king six years ago.

"Ramsey MacDonald is a friendly man. Indeed, I may be allowed to say that we are personal friends. I have often met him and heard him speak in his own quiet and commanding manner about vitally important matters of state. He was always deeply committed to the idea of Anglo-American friendship."

When the question of Mr. MacDonald's successor was mentioned, Mr. Smith was quick to express his pleasure in the expected appointment of Stanley Baldwin as prime minister.

"You know, of course, that Mr. Baldwin is a Christian gentleman—a man held in the highest esteem by all Britisheers. There have been occasions when some of us may not have quite agreed with him, but for all that, he is today one of the greatest men and I believe the people generally will rejoice in his return to Downing Street, and all the more so when it is recalled that Mr. MacDonald has been quoted as expressing the wish that it may be so."

Though in his seventy-fifth year, Gipsy Smith seems as fit as one could expect to be at 40. He has just concluded a city-wide meeting in London which was characterized by the London press as the most successful meeting ever conducted by the Gipsy in that city.

Atlanta is happy to once again welcome this illustrious preacher, and I believe we will see overflowing crowds Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the municipal auditorium.

CORN PRODUCTS CO. EXPANDS ITS OFFICE

The Atlanta branch of the Corn Products Sales Company has enlarged its quarters in the Hurt building to provide space for the mill starch division.

This division is maintained for the express purpose of looking after the requirements and problems of the textile and paper manufacturing trade, and its establishment in Atlanta will mean that the company will be able to keep in closer touch and give better and quicker service to its many cotton and paper mill customers in this vicinity.

C. G. Stover, who has been with the company a number of years and who enjoys a wide acquaintance with the trade, will be in charge of this department.

The company has maintained a branch office in Atlanta for 25 years to serve the grocery, confectionery, bakery and ice cream trade. T. B. Norris, manager, states that their sales on all products so far this year show a splendid increase over last year, and in making this expansion the company has every confidence in the future of the south, particularly the possibilities of trade throughout the cotton belt.

MRS. EVERETT FITCH PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Everett Fitch, widely known Atlantian, died yesterday morning at a private hospital. She resided at 339 Piedmont avenue, N. E.

Mrs. Fitch was the mother of Mrs. Scott Hudson Jr., who formerly was Miss Margaret Fitch, and of Billy M. Fitch, of Atlanta; John Duval Cottraux, of Macon, and Stephen T. Cottraux, of Jackson, Miss. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Stephen G. Palmer Jr., of Minneapolis; a brother, Dr. Richard B. Morgan, of Detroit, and three grandsons, Scott Hudson III, of Atlanta; John Cottraux Jr., of Macon, and Stephen Cottraux, of Jackson, Miss.

A native of Austin, Minn., she was reared in Minneapolis, but had lived in Atlanta for a number of years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery.

VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH SUCCUMBS AT GRADY

Paul Hancock Dies of Injuries Sustained When Car Hit Pole and Wall.

Paul Hancock, 47, of 1075 Capitol avenue, who was injured early yesterday morning in an automobile accident on Clair drive, near Lakewood avenue, died at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Grady hospital.

Mrs. Hancock and Robert P. Beard, 33, of 893 Capitol avenue, who were with Hancock at the time, sustained minor injuries.

The accident occurred several blocks below the city limits when the automobile failed to make one of the winding curves and crashed first into a telephone pole and then a stone wall. Hancock died without regaining consciousness, hospital attaches reported. A fracture of the skull and severe shock were the causes of his death, doctors said.

He is survived by his wife and two stepchildren, LaLance and Grover Barber. Last rites will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of the J. Austin Dillon Company. The Rev. W. H. Major will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery.

Six other Atlantans were injured in a series of accidents yesterday and late Thursday night.

Elmo Barnes, 22, of 1053 Kirkwood avenue, and Cecil Hammond, 19, of 1365 Belmont drive, were hurt when their car was sideswiped by a passing automobile and crashed into a tree at Pulliam and Rawson streets yesterday afternoon. They were both treated at Grady hospital and dismissed.

Julian E. Finch, 25, of the Georgia Baptist orphanage, at Hapeville, and Thelma West, 19, of 512 East Point avenue, East Point, were both injured when an automobile in which they were riding ran off an embankment and overturned on the highway this side of Jackson. Finch is being treated in Grady hospital, where his condition was reported as good, and Miss West, who did not go to Grady until yesterday morning, was removed to Georgia Baptist hospital for treatment. She was reported doing well.

A third passenger in the car, Artemus G. Suits, of 660 Central avenue, Hapeville, was injured slightly.

Miss Louise Asman, 17, of 157 Richardson street, S. W., was admitted to Emory University hospital for treatment of a fractured arm and lacerations sustained in an accident late Thursday night at Haygood drive and North Decatur road. She was riding in a car driven by Joseph Abraham, Emory University student, at the time of the accident, police reported. They said the Abraham car struck another machine which had been left in the road out of gas.

ATLANTA BUSINESS SHOWS GAIN IN MAY

Roper's Report Says NRA Death Had Little Effect on Trade.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Secretary of Commerce Roper said here today that the supreme court decision on NRA has so far produced no changes of great consequence in actual trade activities throughout the country.

Commenting on business in Atlanta the secretary said:

"Retail sales showed an approximate five per cent increase during the last week in May over the previous week. Wholesale trade was considerably off and somewhat under same period last year. Collections were good. Bank clearings were up 8 per cent over same 1933 period. May building permits registered a 10 per cent increase over same month last year. Employment was steady. The Union Bag & Paper Company announced it would erect a $4,000,000 wood pulp manufacturing plant near Savannah. Construction work will start within 30 days and when in operation will employ approximately 1,400 persons with an annual pay roll in excess of $1,000,000."

Business reports from Atlanta indicated, he said, for the time being at least, a widespread desire upon the part of employers in industry and trade to maintain general working conditions comparable to those prevailing under NRA codes.

ON DEATH PENALTY

Georgians Give Views on Capital Punishment.

The execution of eight persons in the United States yesterday brought from Dr. Willis A. Sutton, former president of the National Education Association, the statement, "Capital punishment may be a necessity under existing conditions, but it is to be deplored that life should be taken even by legal process."

Adjutant General Lindley W. Camp, commander of the national guard in Georgia, said "if asked the question, 'Do you oppose capital punishment?' I should answer 'No.'"

Another view was taken by Solicitor-General John Boykin, of Fulton county, who said:

"We ought to keep it and have more of it. As it is there are too many opportunities for a murderer to escape justice."

HUNTSVILLE MILL IS CLOSED BY STRIKE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., June 7.—(AP)—With 800 employees idle, the Dallas Textile mill was closed here today after members of the United Textile Workers of America walked out and posted pickets about the plant "because a nonunion worker was hired."

The walkout, voted yesterday at a meeting of the Dallas local, took effect as the day shift reported for work. Both officials and representatives of the operators said the walkout had no connection with hours or wages, which have remained unchanged since the NRA code was invalidated by the United States supreme court decision.

Four Persons Bitten By Dogs in Atlanta

Four more persons, three of them children, were bitten by dogs yesterday, according to police reports. One of the animals was believed to have been suffering from rabies. All the victims were admitted to Grady hospital for the Pasteur treatment.

A dog believed to have been mad bit Gwendolyn Burtz, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burtz, of 528 Chestnut street, N. W. Elaine Dorsey, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Dorsey, of 50 Moreland avenue, S. E., was attacked by another dog and bitten on the leg.

FIST FIGHT ADJOURNS CHICAGO RED HEARING

Brandeis, Baker and University President Accused by Woman.

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP)—A fist fight in the audience halted today's session of a state senate investigation into alleged radical teachings at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Albert W. Dilling, author of a "red list" of prominent citizens the accused of radical activities, had just finished two hours of charges aimed at the university, at Justice Louis Brandeis, of the supreme court; former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker; Professor John Dewey, of Columbia, the late Jane Addams and nearly 50 others.

A little man in the audience, who left before being identified, turned to the listener in the next seat.

"Her name," said the visitor, "should be M. S. Dilling."

Visitor No. 2 answered with his first. He was Albert W. Dilling, Mrs. Dilling's lawyer husband.

Mrs. Dilling was the first witness before the resumed hearing of the senate committee investigating the university as a result of the withdrawal from that institution of Lucile Norton, of Seattle, Wash., niece of Charles R. Walgreen, millionaire drug store magnate.

One of Mrs. Dilling's specific charges was:

"The Moscow State University council is going to introduce a course this summer on the philosophy of dialectical materialism, which is just another name for atheism. And Robert Maynard Hutchins (president of the university) heads that council."

Dr. Walter Dill Willkie, president of Northwestern University in Evanston, Chicago suburb, drew part of Mrs. Dilling's fire. She told the senators: "He's affiliated with Hutchins and the communist-helping activities, apparently because he thinks it's fashionable."

charges made against Pendley were unfounded, but that he felt the matter should not be pressed.

Councilman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the committee, asserted that factionalism had been eliminated from the department in the past two years and the committee should not sit by and see it creep back.

To Outlaw Air Rifles.

The committee instructed Pendley to review city ordinances relating to use of air rifles and sling shots in Atlanta with a view of preparing one strong enough to bar their use, in a move to preserve peace.

Regulation of bicycles also was discussed and it is probable that additional ordinances to govern cyclists will be enacted if council approves recommendations now contemplated.

VOLNEY DAVIS GETS LIFE IN BREMER KIDNAPING

ST. PAUL, June 7.—(AP)—Volney Davis, who pleaded guilty Monday to conspiracy in the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnaping after his capture in Chicago, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Leavenworth penitentiary in federal court here today.

John J. (Boss) McLaughlin, former Chicago politician, was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth prison as a conspirator.

McLaughlin was accused of engineering the "peddling" of $57,000 of ransom money.

Harold Alderton, in whose home at Bensenville, Ill., Bremer was kept prisoner for 21 days, was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Elmer Farmer, tavern keeper of Bensenville, who assisted in making arrangements with the kidnappers for Alderton's home, and who pleaded guilty during the trial, was sentenced to 20 years in Leavenworth prison.

Alderton's term also will be served in Leavenworth.

'Flip' Winner of Horned Toad Race In Record Time of Five Seconds

Majority of Entrants in Annual Classic Asleep at Post and Fail to Awaken—May Disqualify Losers.

The race is to the swift—and to the awake—when Atlanta's annual horned toad race gets under way. There were 150 entrants in the race conducted by the Tech High Horned Toad Club yesterday, of which about 10 ran, while 140 slept, according to T. L. Smith, faculty adviser of the club.

Yesterday, "Flip," owned by Charles B. Wells, crossed the line first in the unofficial time of 5 seconds, which was a record for the club. The veteran horned toad race attenders alleged was unfair because other toads, even though awake, didn't have time to get started. The race is run from the center of a 20-foot circle, the first toad over the line winning a cup for his lucky owner.

Race officials, headed by T. A. Wells, president of the club, guaranteed there was no "doping" or "fixing," requiring that entrants be kept in training stables for 48 hours prior to the race. This action was taken after untoward incident several years ago.

The toads are received every year by the club, which has 250 active members and 1,050 alumni members, from the Chamber of Commerce of Eastland, Texas, where the story is told, a similar toad lived for 31 years sealed in a cornerstone of the courthouse. Among the famous names entered in the race yesterday were "Mac West," "Will Rogers," "Amos" and "Andy." Amos and Andy as well as Eddie senior are honorary members of the club.

Industrial Users of Cotton Urge Lowering of Loan to Ten Cents

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Creation of a permanent cabinet committee to study problems of cotton growing and the cotton textile industry was recommended today by the committee for economic recovery and business.

The committee, in a voluminous summary of cotton production, cotton growing and cotton textile industry, submitted a series of recommendations to the special cabinet group now studying problems of cotton and textile manufacturers, outstanding of which were:

1. A 10-cent loan on cotton.

2. Continuation of the present processing tax at 42 cents per pound.

3. Continuation of efforts by the government to narrow the wage differential between northern and southern cotton mills.

The committee's recommendations brought the immediate retort from Senator Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, author of the cotton act bearing his name, that the grain was wheat.

"They have assumed to file a recommendation that the grain was wheat," said the senator, "but the cotton plan shall be fixed at 10 cents a pound," Bankhead said in a statement.

The men know about as much about the cotton situation and its proper price as a hog knows about music. The administration will pay about as much attention to them on that subject as it would to a monkey advising on banking and currency.

I am informed that representatives of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, at a special meeting held today, formally threw its weight behind the movement to maintain wage scales and working conditions prevailing in the industry before the supreme court's NRA decision invalidated all codes.

Representatives of mills throughout the southern textile belt spent the entire day in closed session, and then made public a resolution they had adopted recommending to all manufacturers in the industry that no change be made in employees' working conditions.

It was said 12,000,000 spindles of the 18,000,000 in the south were represented at the meeting.

Before going into the situation existing as a result of the annulment of the industry's code—the No. 1 code under the Recovery Act—the manufacturers renewed the recommendation of the annual convention, held at Augusta, Ga., several weeks ago, that the Department of Agriculture again authorize loans to cotton growers at 12 cents a pound.

Spokesmen said the trade was hesitant in buying textile products now for fear a lower loan rate would be effective, resulting in lower prices in the near future.

Appointment of a committee to function in carrying out the recommendation as to wages and working conditions was authorized.

8 PERSONS EXECUTED IN AMERICAN PRISONS

First White Woman Hanged in Delaware; Millens, Pal Pay Penalty.

By the Associated Press.

Eight prisoners, among them a grandmother and her 27-year-old son, were put to death yesterday for crimes against society.

Praying forgiveness, Mrs. Mary H. Carey, the first white woman to be hanged in Delaware, died on the gallows in the fog-shrouded Sussex county jailyard.

Following the 55-year-old grandmother to her death, Howard, her firstborn, went to his death, praying and protesting mildly. Mother and son were convicted on a charge of murdering the woman's brother, Robert Hitchens, seven years ago, for his $2,000 life insurance.

The first of the death marches started at midnight tolled at the Massachusetts state prison, and the last took place in San Quentin prison across the continent in California during the afternoon.

In Massachusetts, Murton Millen, 20-year-old gang leader, was the first to be hanged for the murder of a policeman. At 10-minute intervals his brother, Irving, 21, and Abraham Faber paid with their lives for the same crime.

Early Friday afternoon California settled its score with Edward L. Lange, 29-year-old convicted killer, by hanging him in San Quentin.

Two negroes, Albert Carr, at Huntsville, Texas, and Thurmond Harris, at Columbia, S. C., were electrocuted for the same crime, charges of attacking a white woman.

But Jones, a negro, condemned to die in the electric chair at Millersburg, Ga., for murder, was prepared and just being taken into the chair from Governor Eugene Talmadge's secretary informed the warden of a 20-day respite.

MOTHER AND SON HUNG IN DELAWARE.

GEORGETOWN, Del., June 7.—(AP)—A woman of 55—a grandmother—died in a hangman's noose today, expiating a crime that was "perfect" for more than seven years.

Howard, 27, the son, prayed and protested mildly as he followed her footsteps for the last time. The slaying of his mother's brother, he said in his final moments, was "against my will."

The $2,000 insurance on the life of Robert Hitchens was the motive for the crime for which she acknowledged responsibility, blaming no one.

"My way is clear. I have nothing to say." Those were her last words.

Killed in 1927.

Kitchens was bludgeoned and shot to death in November, 1927.

Standing on the trapdoor of the gallows, Howard protested: "What I did was against my will. I feel sure anyone in my place would have done the same. I hope to see my mother in the other side."

Sunshine had not yet pierced the haze when Mrs. Carey, pale but making no outcry, was led from her cell at 5:02 by two guards. Two clerks followed her, mounting a platform of the 13 steps to the gallows.

She wore a black dress with a touch of white at the collar, black stockings and black shoes. She did not falter in her steps, jail officials said, but her voice quivered as she spoke those last ten words. The cap was placed over her head and her hands and limbs were bound.

Warden Springs Trap.

Warden Hugh D. Smith, closed out of view of the gallows, sprung the trap at 5:07.

Her body was cut down, the rope replaced and the identical procedure was followed for Howard, who wore dark trousers and a white shirt. He was pronounced dead at 6 a. m. The body was removed to the morgue.

From start to finish the executions were carried out in secrecy. A specially erected wooden framework hid the gallows. The six uniformed troopers acted as pallbearers. About 70 persons were at the graves.

Mother and son had their last nourishment cream and cake at 2 a. m., prison officials said. They spent most of the night with two ministers and their counsel, Frederick Whitney.

CALIFORNIA YOUTH HANGED IN CALIFORNIA

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., June 7.—(AP)—Edward L. Lange, 29, murderer of a policeman, was hanged today in a holdup, was hanged here today.

Lange spent the night reading detective stories, and went to his death calmly.

His accomplice, Ralph Ballicke, is serving a life sentence for the crime.

NEGRO PAYS PENALTY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 7.—(AP)—Under the glare of lights in the high-walled death house, Thurmond Harris, 24-year-old negro, was electrocuted at 12:10 a. m. today for the same crime.

It was the first night-time electrocution in this state. Prison officials said the electrocution was held at night to avoid breaking prison routine and exciting the convicts.

The negro confessed as he was seated in the chair.

TEXAS NEGRO DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 7.—(AP)—Albert Carr, Houston negro, paid with his life in the state's electric chair early today for criminally attacking a white woman.

MURDERER OF 20 PAYS DEATH PENALTY.

KHARKOFF, U. S. S. R., June 7.—(AP)—Convicted of murdering 20 women in a little more than 12 months, Engineer Malashoff was executed today.

BRITAIN ADDS GUARDS AT EMBASSY IN ROME

Precautions Taken Following Attack on England by Italian Newspapers.

ROME, June 7.—(AP)—A greatly increased guard was set about the British embassy today as the Italian press, reveling in the "bid off" order it received this week, continued its bitter attack on England's opposition to Italy's African policies.

(In London Captain Anthony Eden, retiring lord privy seal, told the house of commons that Italian newspaper charges that Britain was encouraging Ethiopian hostility against Italy were "mischievously absurd.")

(The British legislators cheered loudly as Clement Richard Attlee, deputy leader of the opposition, declared Italy "ought to be told plainly that she would not have the use of the Suez canal if she intended to use force against Ethiopia.")

Where two members of the carabinieri (national police) ordinarily are assigned to embassies, five colorfully-uniformed guards appeared at the British mission, and plainclothesmen scouting in the vicinity carefully inspected all persons approaching.

Front page editorials lashed out again at the British attitude in the Italian-Ethiopian controversy, which was credited with influencing Premier Benito Mussolini to accept arbitration after he had consistently rejected it, despite the seizure of yesterday's edition of the newspaper Ottobro, which openly talked of war between the two European nations.

At Milan, meanwhile, the Italian Ethiopian conciliation commission adjourned until June 25 to meet again in Schweinfurt, the Netherlands. The commission's meeting today was to list documents needed for its consideration.

F. D. R. STRENGTHENS NEW U. S. TAX RUMORS

President Cautiously Favors Greater Distribution of Wealth.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau, indirectly, gave new impetus today to talk of a fresh distribution of wealth through gift and inheritance taxes.

The series of developments pointed in that direction included: The president said at his press conference he hoped to give the people "greater distribution, not only of wealth in the narrow sense, but of wealth in the wider terms."

Secretary Morgenthau arranged to confer with congressional tax leaders shortly.

Speaker Byrnes said he was "rather inclined to think" as a "personal observation—that the president would propose new inheritance and increased gift taxes.

Morgenthau advocated before a meeting of federal and state representatives at a tax conference "workable means of eliminating conflicts and overlapping" taxes. "Overlapping" taxes include, as an illustration, those imposed by state and federal governments on gasoline and tobacco.

Roosevelt Wary. President Roosevelt did not elaborate upon his idea of a greater distribution of wealth from the standpoint of taxes other than to say he had not thought of taxes for a month. There have been recent conferences with congressional tax leaders, however, at which he was reported to have referred to inheritance taxes as one method of redistributing income.

Morgenthau will talk soon with Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means, and Harrison of the senate finance committees, the two congressional committees which handle all tax legislation.

Privately, it was said this might be the procedure followed if the president made up his mind to ask for the new taxes.

Let the house simply approve a resolution extending $416,000,000 in surtaxes which expire June 30. Then make a survey of surtaxes in the senate and determine the chances of adding the inheritance and gift taxes there. If chances are good, put them on there and send them back to the house, where leaders believe acceptance would be assured.

Morgenthau Plan. Talk centered chiefly about the proposal advanced by Secretary Morgenthau as a means of financing bonus payment.

At present, gift taxes range on a graduated scale from 3.4 to 1 percent on gifts under $10,000 to 45 percent on gifts over $100,000 within one year. There are no federal inheritance taxes. Morgenthau suggested application of income tax rates to both gifts and inheritances.

That would mean application of taxes ranging from 4 percent to nearly 63 percent of gifts and inheritances over $100,000 and bring in $300,000,000 to $600,000,000 annually.

In his address to the double taxation meeting today, Morgenthau first proposed a careful survey to determine how "the burden of government expenses is distributed."

He suggested notation of changes which would "produce a sound and more equitable distribution of the total burden," development of a "workable means" of eliminating overlaps, and finally an application of those "workable means."

Congressmen Learning New Language for NRA. WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Democratic members of congress are having to learn a new language.

Chairman Canner of the house labor committee, after listening to a speech on the new NRA bill, using the word "propaganda," said:

"Now under these new codes—er, I mean agreements," he corrected himself.

Chairman Jones of the house agriculture committee, was explaining the new agriculture amendments to newspapermen.

"You see, under the licensing section—that is to say the section covering the issuance of orders," he said.

"Codes" and "licenses" are also since the supreme court decision, resulting in the new terms.

Emory To Give Honorary Degrees To Candler, Caldwell and Rumble

Three Georgians Will Get Awards at Exercises Monday; Robert Woodruff Named Member of Board of College Trustees.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, President of the Georgia Methodist conference, and the Rev. Lester Rumble, pastor of the First Methodist church of Athens, will be honored Monday by Emory University as a part of the annual commencement exercises.

Degrees for outstanding endeavor will be awarded the three distinguished Georgians. It was voted yesterday by the board of trustees, which elected Robert W. Woodruff, president of the Coca-Cola Company, as a member of the group.

In announcing the re-election of Dr. Harvey W. Cox as president of Emory University, the trustees were highly praising the president for the efficiency with which he operated the school during the last year.

On Monday morning Emory's 100th anniversary next year also was made, and a history of the school, written by Dr. Henry M. Bullock, will be published.

Candler Speaks Today. Bishop Candler, who was graduated at Emory 60 years ago, will be the principal speaker at Atlanta Day exercises at 11 o'clock this morning at the theology chapel. He was once coadjutor of the university.

On Monday morning Emory will award the venerable Methodist bishop a rare degree—that of doctor of human letters.

President Caldwell, recently appointed head of the University of Georgia, will receive a doctor of laws degree. From 1924 to 1928 he was a member of the Lamar School of Law at Emory. Now he is the youngest college president of this country.

Mr. Rumble, who graduated at Emory in 1920, is pastor of the First Methodist church in Athens, and one of the state's most brilliant young ministers. He will deliver the Emory memorial sermon tomorrow at the Glenn Memorial church. His degree is that of doctor of divinity.

Affairs in Good Shape. Dr. Cox was at Atlanta at Emory in the best of shape, the school officials said.

F. D. R. OUTLINES SOCIAL OBJECTIVES OF ADMINISTRATION

The resolution extended NRA until April 1, 1936, and repealed those sections of the law which empowered the president to prescribe and enforce codes—that is the compulsory sections of the act which were declared void by the high court.

Dividing generally along party lines, the house gave preponderant approval to Mr. Roosevelt's 9-12 months proposal that a fragment of the NRA staff be retained for statistical research—a piece of legislation carefully drawn to leave the way open for voluntary codes.

Just before the final vote, the house refused, 107 to 282, to send the resolution back to the ways and means committee to draft a substitute to give the trade commission authority to give the president the power to approve voluntary codes. The proposal was by Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts.

Despite the president's assertion that voluntary codes would have to conform with the anti-trust laws, a dispute arose in the senate which would "produce a sound and more equitable distribution of the total burden," development of a "workable means" of eliminating overlaps, and finally an application of those "workable means."

Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and King, democrat, Utah, both NRA critics, were concerned over the question whether the resolution had the effect of continuing presidential power to approve voluntary codes with an accompanying relaxation of the anti-monopoly statutes.

Richberg's View. Just before the president's acceptance of his resignation, Richberg, at his first press conference, said the supreme court decision invalidating NRA, said voluntary agreements were "just a matter of possibility."

He thought the president was not powerful to approve codes in the sense that the word has formerly been used.

Richberg stressed that he was not attempting to indicate administration policy because he definitely did not know what was intended.

He took occasion, too, to deny he had ever said he would stake his legal reputation on the outcome of the case in the supreme court and to dispute assertions by General Hugh S. Johnson and others that he had taken a bad case to the court for decision.

During house debate on the midday NRA measure, republicans charged that the measure was designed to set up a propaganda machine devoted to proving the president's program was right. One of them, Fish, of New York, asserted the legislation was "nothing but a democratic bill for democratic propaganda."

Chairman O'Connor, democrat, New York, of the rules committee, came to the defense of a speech that evoked a prolonged standing ovation from the democratic side while the republicans silently looked on, some sour, some smiling with amusement.

"The NRA is not dead," he shouted the bulky New Yorker, "we will not let it die. It is not a political issue, and the Lord help those who try to make it one."

A small group of republicans demanded a roll call vote on adopting a rule of procedure limiting debate on the plan to one hour. Shouts of "Let them have it" came from the democrats as scores of them rose to make up the number who must request a roll call before one is ordered.

The democrats won 280 to 100. Mr. Roosevelt's outline of administration objectives was given in response to a question asked at his regular press conference. At first he was reluctant to answer such a statement, asserting it would take an hour or so. Then, speaking with increasing rapidity, he boiled his aims down to this:

"The social objective, I should say, remains just what it was, which is to do what any honest government of any country would do: To try to increase the security and the happiness of a large number of people in all occupations of life and all parts of the country; to give them a greater distribution, not only of wealth in the narrow terms but of wealth in the wider terms; to give them places to go in the summer time—recreation; to give them assurance that they are not going to starve in their old age; to give honest business a chance to go ahead and make an honest profit, and to give everyone a chance to earn a living."

Views on Voluntary Codes. The president said he fully favored voluntary codes and had no objection to the ratification by the states of compact between themselves stipulating labor and business conduct practices to be enforced. Of the latter, he said he hoped they would work, but pointed out that an existing compact covering the oil industry did not include eight states which produce oil.

He was asked about the status of the anti-trust laws since the supreme court invalidated the National Industrial Recovery Act, which carried authorization to the president to make exemptions from the laws in the case of some coded industries.

Anybody may draw up a voluntary code, he said, so long as it does not violate the anti-trust laws, he added that he now had no authority to waive the application of those laws and was sworn in fact to see that they were enforced.

Can Be Sabotaged. While approving of efforts to retain NRA objectives through voluntary codes and state compacts, the president avowedly has little confidence that they will prove effective. His viewpoint is that they can be easily sabotaged by a recalcitrant few. This was summed up in answer to a question whether the oil situation would be improved if all the states joined.

GOERING HINTS REICH PLANS ANTI-RED PACTS

Success Would Destroy Present Anti-Nazi Alignment.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 7.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles gained a growing impression today that Germany, represented here by her honeymooning envoy, General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, plans to build a wall of alliances across Europe to check any westward surge of communism.

The reich was understood to be aiming at a lineup ultimately including Poland, Austria, Italy, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, to present a solid anti-red front from the North sea to the Mediterranean.

General Goering, Prussian premier and German air minister, had hour-long conferences today with Premier Yevich, Regent Prince Paul, Finance Minister Stojanovich and War Minister Zivkovich.

Germany was represented as being willing to discuss guarantees of the independence of Austria and the integrity of Italy's northern frontier.

Important steps to win Yugoslav co-operation were said to have been taken by an assurance that her present order would be respected and that the question of a Hapsburg restoration would be dropped indefinitely.

Yugoslavia was represented as favorably disposed if the new arrangement does not disturb her well consolidated friendship with members of the Little Entente and France.

A large Austrian faction, eagerly awaiting an opportunity to recreate the monarchy, was expected to oppose the German plans, although it was believed this faction might forego its dreams of a restoration for sole assurance of independence.

Long's Foe Faces Charges

Colonel John P. Sullivan (above), political opponent of Senator Huey P. Long and dispenser of patronage for the Roosevelt administration in Louisiana, faces charges of operating a confidence game in connection with certain real estate deals in New Orleans. He said the bills of information were baseless. (Associated Press photo.)

McREYNOLDS TOASTS CONSTITUTION, F. D. R.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 7.—(AP)—Dramatically opening his address before the Tennessee Bar Association to-night, Justice James C. McReynolds, of the United States supreme court, proposed toasts to the constitution and to President Roosevelt.

Justice McReynolds, a former member of the Nashville bar and a conservative member of the high court, informed his audience he would "do something a little bit unusual."

He then raised a high tumbler of water and said:

"I ask you to rise and drink a toast with me to the foundation of our liberties and the only sure foundation of our hopes—the constitution."

The audience, cheering, leaped to its feet and then McReynolds said:

"And once more I ask you to rise and drink with me a toast to the president of the United States."

Again the audience, cheering with even more enthusiasm, arose and drank the toast.

Mother and Two Sons Are Killed in Airplane Crash

A small group of republicans demanded a roll call vote on adopting a rule of procedure limiting debate on the plan to one hour. Shouts of "Let them have it" came from the democrats as scores of them rose to make up the number who must request a roll call before one is ordered.

The democrats won 280 to 100. Mr. Roosevelt's outline of administration objectives was given in response to a question asked at his regular press conference. At first he was reluctant to answer such a statement, asserting it would take an hour or so. Then, speaking with increasing rapidity, he boiled his aims down to this:

"The social objective, I should say, remains just what it was, which is to do what any honest government of any country would do: To try to increase the security and the happiness of a large number of people in all occupations of life and all parts of the country; to give them a greater distribution, not only of wealth in the narrow terms but of wealth in the wider terms; to give them places to go in the summer time—recreation; to give them assurance that they are not going to starve in their old age; to give honest business a chance to go ahead and make an honest profit, and to give everyone a chance to earn a living."

Views on Voluntary Codes. The president said he fully favored voluntary codes and had no objection to the ratification by the states of compact between themselves stipulating labor and business conduct practices to be enforced. Of the latter, he said he hoped they would work, but pointed out that an existing compact covering the oil industry did not include eight states which produce oil.

He was asked about the status of the anti-trust laws since the supreme court invalidated the National Industrial Recovery Act, which carried authorization to the president to make exemptions from the laws in the case of some coded industries.

Anybody may draw up a voluntary code, he said, so long as it does not violate the anti-trust laws, he added that he now had no authority to waive the application of those laws and was sworn in fact to see that they were enforced.

Can Be Sabotaged. While approving of efforts to retain NRA objectives through voluntary codes and state compacts, the president avowedly has little confidence that they will prove effective. His viewpoint is that they can be easily sabotaged by a recalcitrant few. This was summed up in answer to a question whether the oil situation would be improved if all the states joined.

Yugoslavia was represented as favorably disposed if the new arrangement does not disturb her well consolidated friendship with members of the Little Entente and France.

A large Austrian faction, eagerly awaiting an opportunity to recreate the monarchy, was expected to oppose the German plans, although it was believed this faction might forego its dreams of a restoration for sole assurance of independence.

Officials Estimate Flood Damage In Missouri Valley at 41 Million

Forecasters Believe Inflow Will Be Dissipated Before Waters Pour Over Fertile St. Louis-St. Charles Counties Valley.

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—(AP)—Apparently at its peak within inches of the 1903 high water record, the flooding Missouri river poured into the Mississippi tonight while four states cast about the water-wrought havoc for an adequate damage estimate.

With the flood loss in Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri unofficially estimated as high as $41,000,000, government officials awaited more comprehensive checks before making public their figures.

The Missouri, which for days spread across a five-mile basin along stretches of its valley, was falling in the western section of the state, and remained stationary at the outlet, where foundation was most severe. Rose Nunn, government forecaster, said there was no danger of a major flood on the Mississippi.

The flood crest of the Kaw spilled itself into the Missouri at Kansas City, but forecasters said any rise from that inflow would be dissipated before the water reached the fertile St. Louis-St. Charles counties valley. The crest in the Mississippi today was rising past St. Charles, Mo., toward the Mississippi.

4,000 Families in Need. Unofficial damage estimates placed the loss in Missouri at $15,000,000 while floods poured over 750 square miles of farm land; $13,000,000 in Nebraska, $10,000,000 in Colorado and $5,000,000 in Kansas. The Red Cross families, probably was at its peak and turned to the serious business of feeding and housing the flood victims.

Domestic Strife, Rum Are Blamed by Bandit

Domestic trouble and drinking were blamed by W. E. McDaniel, alias C. E. Holsum, in a reported confession of the holdup of a chain grocery store at 801 Parkway drive Thursday night. Police said they would go before the grand jury Tuesday asking for an indictment.

McDaniel told Detectives Hiram Davis and Fred Battle, they said, that he had lived at 297 North Avenue, N. E., for several weeks. The detectives reported that he had made a complete confession of the crime. They said he is not suspected in any other holdups, and that no attempt was being made to connect him with any unsolved cases.

$85,670,756 DEBT DEFERRED BY BRITAIN

Hull Announces U. S. Readiness To Consider Whole Question of Payment.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Hitting at the possibility of a future war debt settlement parley, Great Britain today notified the United States that it would default on war debt installment of $85,670,756 due on June 15 and payments in arrears amounting to roughly $380,000,000.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, informed Secretary Hull in a formal note that the British government had given a comprehensive explanation, in a note delivered last June, why his government had been unable to make payments in the past, "pending the negotiation of a final revised settlement."

"His majesty's government," today's note said, "have constantly given most careful consideration to the matter, but they regret that it does not appear to them that the essentials of the situation have changed since that note was written. They observe that the appreciation of the readiness of the United States government to discuss any proposals for dealing with the present situation and wish to state that they will be fully prepared to resume discussion when ever circumstances would appear to warrant the hope that a result satisfactory to both governments might be expected."

The British default generally is expected to pave the way for a general default by other war debt nations. The United States was left without the exception of Finland have defaulted on installments due on the last two due dates.

"I wish," Hull's note to Lindsay said, "in presenting this notice of amount due under the agreement signed by the British government to reiterate the fact that this government is fully prepared to discuss, through diplomatic channels, any proposals which your government may desire to put forward in regard to the payment of war debt installments, and to assure you that such proposals would receive careful consideration with a view to eventual submission to the American congress."

conference, business was at a standstill, while the question on the lips of foreigners and Chinese alike was: "What will be the next Japanese move?"

Tension Eases.

When the conference ended and the Japanese announced no decision had been reached, the tension eased somewhat, the residents there were at least one more day of grace. Japanese military demonstrations along the streets outside the foreign area continued intermittently, but there was a common observation to see detachments of several hundred Japanese, in full equipment, marching through the Chinese native areas.

Responsible residents consider these parades of warriors are likely to aggravate the situation shortly, with incidents which may precipitate serious hostilities.

Chen Expected Today.

General Zhang Chen, the newly appointed Chinese commander for Tientsin, who was formerly stationed at Peiping, is expected to arrive tomorrow with the 22d army, which will undertake garrison duties in this area.

Lieutenant-General Yoshijiro Umezu, commander of the Japanese garrison in north China, said at the close of the day's discussion that future Japanese action depends upon "the sincerity of the Chinese in dealing with the Japanese requests."

He declared that the removal of Chinese officials in these areas to other positions was "evading the issue and that the root of the trouble remains, although on the surface it appears that the Japanese demands have been met."

Major General Rensuke Isogai, Japanese military attaché here, was quoted by Rengo Japanese News Agency as saying China faces the necessity of establishing a new government "capable of co-operating with Japan in maintaining peace in the future."

CRISIS SUMS IMMINENT BETWEEN JAPAN, CHINA

TOKYO, June 7.—(AP)—Troop-filled transports and Japanese warships today as a crisis appeared imminent in the relations between Japan and China.

There were official denials that the troop movements were connected with the military authorities' activities in China.

Military and diplomatic quarters were active, however. Prince Kuniyuki Kido, field marshal and chief of the army general staff, submitted a report on this situation to Emperor Hirohito.

Premier Keisuke Okada conferred on the same question with Foreign Minister Koki Hirota and Lieutenant General Toranosuke Hashimoto, vice minister for war.

A foreign office spokesman said: "Japan intends to respect China's sovereignty. We have no territorial ambitions in China."

Units from the Japanese army divisions embarked for Tientsin. There were about 1,000 men in the units. A definite date—June 11—has been fixed by which China must yield to Japan's demands, vernacular newspaper dispatches from China reported.

Some asserted the note was handed to General Ho Ying-ching at Peiping Friday, while others asserted it was to be delivered to Peiping and Nanking Saturday and Sunday.

NATION-WIDE ATTACK ON NARCOTICS PLANNED

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—A series of new nationwide attacks on international and domestic narcotic and liquor rings and counterfeiters were being planned today by the treasury's co-ordinated revenue law enforcement agencies.

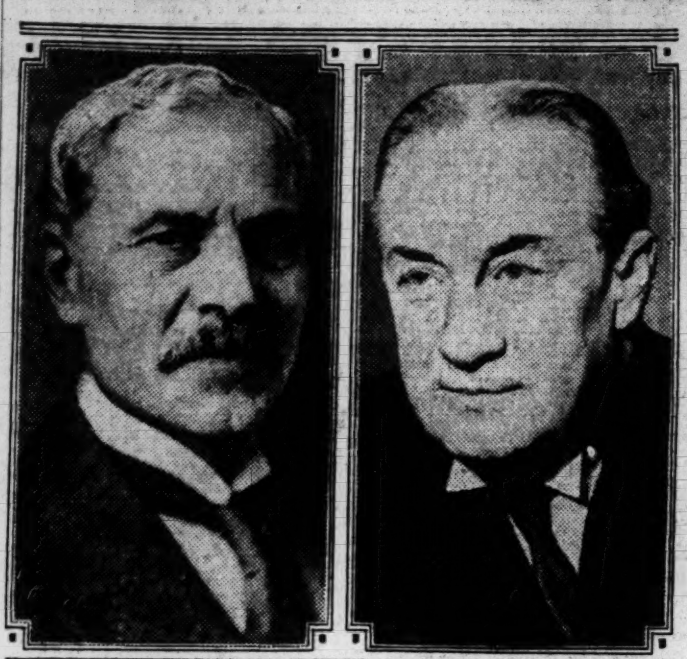

Evidence was being assembled by the agency for putting several thousand men into a smashing assault on smugglers and revenue violators.

The plans call for the border-to-border raids to be staged with all possible swiftness, similar to the first big drive in March that brought almost 3,000 arrests and resulted in breaking up a number of international narcotic rings and in hundreds of convictions for liquor revenue law violations.

deserter for dominions in his father's government.

Ernest Brown, minister of labor, was named to cabinet rank from his previous non-cabinet post as minister of mines.

Lord Eustace Percy, minister without portfolio, was named to the house of commons, not lords.

Outgoing ministers are Lord Stanley, lord chancellor; Sir John Gilmour, both at home and abroad.

Despite hints that Sir John Simon, previously foreign secretary, was on the way out, he appeared in the new lineup as home secretary and deputy prime minister.

MacDonald's Farewell.

As the ailing MacDonald left for his home in Lismouline, Scotland, he said "to seek respite from the heavy and continuous strain of the past six years."

The new administration made its first official pronouncement—that it would not pay an installment of the war debt due this month.

A note delivered to Washington said Britain saw no reason for altering her decision suspending the war debt payments but again offered to discuss new settlement of the problem.

This was taken to indicate there would be no great changes in British foreign policies under Baldwin's leadership.

After returning to his audience at the palace, MacDonald was seen in the street to receive his new post from Baldwin. MacDonald issues an explanation of his withdrawal in which he emphasized the necessity for continuity of the cooperative efforts of the three government parties.

"Such a cabinet is still required if national progress is to be maintained," he declared, "and the problems, both domestic and foreign, with which we are beset are to be surmounted."

The veteran Scot made it clear that through the war he had nothing to do with matters of opinion or policy.

set up a barrier against wine from other countries.

Just which wine dealer will be selected to test the wine law is not known. Chief Sturdivant said he did not know which of the several hundred merchants selling wine would be taken into custody. It is thought any one of a number of them will willingly submit to arrest in order to win the case.

The wine law in Washington will probably delay the legal costs, inasmuch as it has gone on record as being willing to combat the Georgia wine law in maintaining peace in the future.

New Japanese troops are expected to arrive June 12.

Curious Deer Set Free After Ride in Taxi Cab

ROCHESTER, N. H., June 7.—(AP)—A deer poked its way into a taxi cab office today, and soon afterward was taken home to the hills—in a cab.

Curiosity got the better of the animal, a year-old buck weighing 125 pounds, and it cautiously pushed through swinging doors into a building housing the taxi office. It was startled in the corridor, and making for the stairs to a cellar, where it found itself trapped.

The city marshal and some assistants called a taxi in the upstairs office, picked up the animal, bundled it into the machine, and drove with the passenger two miles out of the city, where he was released into the woods.

ing. It was taken immediately to the sheriff's office.

Bodily, who said he would refuse to search further for the kidnaper unless he got more information from the federal agents, indicated tonight he still was not in sympathy with their attitude.

NEW YORK CHILD BELIEVED KIDNAPED

KVLI.—(AP)—The theory that five-year-old John Kaul is in the hands of kidnappers who unknowingly believe his father can pay a large ransom gain credence today after the state river bottom had been dredged by police without trace of the child.

Police were informed by an unidentified source that he had seen a man attempting to entice small children in the fashionable neighborhood from which the Kaul boy disappeared early today.

Two detectives were assigned to investigate the story.

While the boy's father continued his search, his mother wrote a plea that her son be returned safely to her and that the kidnappers be paid if the child has been kidnapped he be treated well.

Other Revisions Pending.

Willott said the commission was also figuring on a revision of rates for the Georgia Power & Light Company and the Georgia Electric Company.

The commission previously ordered a reduction in commercial rates and lowered the domestic rates. Domestic rates apply to residences.

The reduction yesterday followed evidence obtained in a hearing before the commission that the rates were too high.

Commercial rates previously charged were "unjust, unreasonable, excessive and not conducive to the proper development and use of the part of the customer."

Reductions Surprise.

Mr. Arkwright stated:

"The drastic reductions in commercial rates made effective by the order of the public service commission are a complete surprise. Our commercial rates already were very low."

He said the commission's action was a surprise because the rates were so low.

The preliminary study indicates that the actual reduction will be at least $425,000 in revenue, or 10 per cent of gross revenues from commercial customers instead of the $200,000 reduction the commission had estimated.

This is in addition to the reduction of $856,000 resulting from a two-fold reduction in the rates on new power.

This new reduction will affect virtually every one of the companies in the state, and the rates will be lower than the rates in other states.

"The reduction is particularly astonishing in view of the fact there was very little demand for it on the part of the companies," he said.

That a great majority of them realized their rates were very low following the reductions made last year and there was no demand on their part for further reductions. As a matter of fact, the new order, in effect, destroys the purpose of the commercial power rate reduction.

It is estimated that the rates will be as low or lower than the commercial inducement rate."

MAJOR R. EASTMAN PASSES AT TIGER, GA.

Retired Marine Corps Officer Formerly Lived Here and Was Widely Known.

Major R. Angier Eastman, United States marine corps, retired, died yesterday at the home of his father, Dr. Frank Eastman, in Tiger, Ga. He was 63.

The officer formerly resided in Atlanta, where he was born, and was widely known here.

Major Eastman was the husband of Mrs. Bessie Altemus Eastman, of Philadelphia, and he resided there for many years.

He was a member of the commandant of the marine corps at Philadelphia when he retired about five years ago.

His wife is the mother of Mrs. John Hay Eastman, of Philadelphia society leader, and of Jimmy Altemus, of New York.

The major is also survived by his father, who was formerly of Atlanta; three brothers, Donald R. Eastman, Frank C. Eastman Jr., and E. Jerry Eastman, all of Atlanta; and two nephews, Eastman Hunter, and John Eastman Jr., of Atlanta.

Major Eastman served many years in the marine corps and was a close friend of Major General Smedley Butler, who was killed in action in Haiti and China and in several cities in the United States. He was a graduate of Young Harris College.

Major Eastman will be buried at Spring Hill, and the Rev. Charles Holding will conduct the services. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

"I am confident that the city's income tax returns will be a timely picture, too, for its access to state or federal return early in the current year. I believe that scores of other cities of the nation are in the same predicament."

"The city's income tax returns are being levied a comparatively high ad valorem tax and living from hand-to-mouth or facing the stark reality of bankruptcy."

"These returns would mean the salvation of these local governments, would permit a reduction in the taxes levied on the real estate property owners and would mean a more equitable distribution of the costs of government."

'Public Hero Number 1'

Best G-Men Film Yet

"Public Hero No. 1" showing at Loew's Grand, makes all preceding G-men pictures appear somewhat puerile in treatment both from standpoint of atmosphere, plotting and casting. It provides a real picture which is suspense-filled and generally satisfying and lacks the propaganda effect one might expect, although it does not fail in its mission of enlightenment, if it was designed to that end.

The gangster leader, evidently patterned after John Dillinger, as many of the instances of the famous man-hunt are incorporated, is done to a turn by Joseph Calleia, who as a actor who makes a smashing debut in this film. Calleia does not try to be cute and the way he portrays the character, one couldn't imagine the guy even capturing a moll. He presents the gangster as what he probably is from the standpoint of man's judgment, a heartless, soulless ruthless, cowardly rat for whom ties of blood and of friendship merit only treachery and whose only idea in life is to preserve his own hide in luxury.

The producers give you as graphic an idea of what a machine gun battle with organized crime is like as it is possible to give without actually making you down with the fiendish typewriters. They present with frankness and verisimilitude the unpleasant but necessary job of a G-men without varnish, showing that phase of it which is not cricket to the idealist. But idealists don't become secret service men or police officers, they are the least unscrupulous police when they need help.

If the love interest had been left out, the picture would have been a sort of wise-cracking romance that really exists these days. Chester Morris, as a physician, is a real service, probably does her best piece of work to the gangster's sister. Lionel Barrymore as physician to the gangsters is a delight.

The space is all gone, but Patsy Kelly and Thelma Todd can worry you any night of it.

999 Thrills Revealed

In Rialto's 'Air Hawks'

A picture with 999 thrills (only one less than advertised) opened yesterday at the Rialto theater with that veteran aviator, Wiley Post, playing a leading role.

"Air Hawks" is a new type of story for the screen and believe us, the producers of this picture are not afraid to think out of the box. They have thought out no expense in devising ways and means of making the business of flying airplanes even more dangerous.

It is a timely picture, too, for its climax is provided by a stratosphere flight by Post across the continent—which is just what he is planning to do any day now. He fell short on his first attempt.

Post, who has circled the globe a couple of times in that famous plane of his, the Winnie Mae, has Rialto's Bellamy and Tala Birell as support in the cast. They produce the emotional thrills for the benefit of those persons who are not satisfied with judgments against the property, and the claim was granted by the lower court.

The notes issued by Rialto were held by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and the claim was granted by the lower court.

Junior Prom Ends Gay Program Of Tech Commencement Dances

Miss Ellen Fleming, who led the grand march last evening with Dan Holsenbeck, president of the Junior class at Georgia Tech, at the Junior prom which climaxed the series of commencement dances. Miss Fleming recently returned from Tallahassee, where she was a student at the Florida State College for Women. Photographed by Elliott's studio.

The Junior prom, held last evening at the Tech R. O. T. C. Armory, ended the brilliant program of dances which featured Tech commencement.

The event marked the juniors' formal introduction as seniors.

Miss Ellen Fleming, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamar Fleming, led the grand march with Dan Holsenbeck, president of the Junior class. They were assisted by Culver Kidd dancing with Miss Frances Burns, and Mason Williams.

Yesterday afternoon President M. L. Brittain, of Tech, and Mrs. Brittain entertained at their annual reception in honor of the members of the senior class. The party, which is always an outstanding event among the commencement festivities, was held at the hosts' home on North avenue.

The lace-covered tea table held in the center an attractive arrangement of pink roses and blue larkspur in a low silver bowl. Tall pink tapers burned in silver holders. Pastel shaded garden flowers adorned the rooms where the guests were received.

Forming the receiving line with the hosts were Chancellor and Mrs. Philip Welter, Miss Margaret Talmadge with Elmer Johnson, Miss Lucia Smith with Clarence Roberts, Miss Frances Butters with Wright Paulk, Miss Dixie Woolford with Dillon Kalkhurst, Miss June Spalding with Billie Glenn, Miss Bettie Boggs, of Tallahassee, Fla., with Jay Cannon; Miss Virginia Hart with Jere Perkins, Miss Mary Elizabeth Barge with John Ridley and Miss Frances Austin with Gordon Catts.

Miss Greer Weds Dr. T. S. White In New York City

Miss Elizabeth Juanita Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldsmith Greer, of this city, and Dr. Thomas Sherman White, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin B. White, of Swansea, Mass., were married Thursday afternoon at Christ church, New York city. The Rev. John R. Atkinson, former dean of the cathedral in Atlanta and pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, the Rev. H. Ross Greer, rector of Grace church, Millbrook, N. Y. Mrs. H. Ross Greer, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and the only attendant. The bride wore a tailored model of white crepe with harmonizing shoulder bouquet and accessories. The matron of honor was dressed similarly in yellow crepe. White flowers and cathedral candles were used in the church.

After a motor trip Dr. and Mrs. White will reside in Millbrook, N. Y., where Dr. White has been located as a physician since serving his internship in Albany and Poughkeepsie, N. Y., hospitals.

Mrs. White is a graduate of Agnes Scott College and has the Ph. D. degree from Johns Hopkins University. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Phi Delta Gamma. For the past five years she has been head of the science department at Mary Baldwin College.

Related to Alexander Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy, a descendant of General Eli McColl and connected with the Ross, Peters, Tharpe, Durham, and Goldsmith families of Georgia and South Carolina, the bride is well known throughout the south.

Dr. White is a graduate of Defiance College and has the M. D. degree from Albany Medical College of Union University. He is a member of Alpha Kappa.

Miss Starbuck Is Honor Guest

Additional parties are announced daily in compliment to Miss Frances Starbuck, a popular bride-elect of next Saturday. Misses Belle Scott, Menard and Florence Hancock have planned a luncheon to be given in her honor on Wednesday at the Druid Hills Golf Club.

Miss Starbuck and her fiancé, Charles Patton Jr., of Watertown, N. Y., will be central figures at the buffet supper to be given following the rehearsal, June 14, by Mr. and Mrs. John Starbuck, parents of the bride-to-be, at their home on Lullwater road.

Mrs. John Starbuck entertained at a trousseau tea yesterday in honor of her daughter at her home on Lullwater road. The beautifully-appointed tea table was graced in the center by a lovely arrangement of pink and white larkspur and roses. Multi-colored garden flowers adorned the reception apartments of Mrs. Starbuck's home.

Assisting the hostess in receiving were Misses Martha Lowe, Dorothy Coates, Dorothy Moncrief, Ernestine Starbuck, Irene Lyons of Conway, S. C.; Mesdames Hugh Burgess, Luther Randall and Earl Trimbull. Miss Helen Randall, Ann Garrett and Gladys Randall served punch.

Miss Fleming Weds Mr. Player At Fashionable Church Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. FRANK ANTHONY PLAYER.

Heirloom rose point lace and shimmering antique satin contrasted with the soft blue glow of the lighted stained glass windows on either side of the altar, for the marriage of Miss Miriam Fleming and Mr. Frank Anthony Player.

The ceremony, which was one of the most brilliant of the season, took place at 8:30 o'clock at All Saints Episcopal church with Dr. W. W. Memminger, rector of the church officiating in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives, and friends of the young couple and many out-of-town guests.

Church Decorations.

The ecclesiastical interior of the handsome church was further enhanced by the soft and effective glow from the stained glass memorial windows on either side of the altar, gained from lights placed on the outside. The predominating blue shade was effectively offset by the warm tones of the two windows. The altar was banked with Easter lilies and formed the central decoration flanked on either side by tall floor vases filled with lilies and white hydrangea placed under each window. Palms and woodwardia fern banked the choir rail and ferns in large pots flanked the altar.

Wedding Party.

Acting as ushers were Philip Alston, Cam Dorsey, Dr. William Shalenger, Walter Douglas, of Savannah; Alex. M. Ryan, of Albany, Ga.; and Dr. J. H. Smith, of Decatur. Joseph Holleman, Richard Mitchell, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Eugene Pearce and Ralph Boynton.

Miss Ann Ryan Fleming was maid of honor for her sister, and acting as bridesmaids were Miss Adelaide Carline, another sister of the bride; Caroline Crumley, Elizabeth Hopkins and Suzanne Memminger.

They were all gowned alike in beautiful models of white silk point d'esprit fashioned with the becoming off-the-shoulder effect, with tiny puff sleeves, and with the tiny puffs forming the shoulder. The dresses were modeled to the graceful figures of the attendants. At the knees rows of the floor length full skirt which extended to form a long train. Adding an effective and colorful feature were the sashes of hydrangea corded silk tied in the back.

They all carried full bouquets of hydrangeas shading from blue to pink and ending in garland effect over the train. The destination of which was not revealed. The bride traveled in charrette corded silk ensemble, with hat and other accessories of brown. Consistent with her costume was a spray of bronze orchids. Upon their return to Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Player will be popular and prominent additions to the ranks of the younger married contingent.

Receiving Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, the bride and groom, were met at the entrance of the church by Mr. and Mrs. Player, parents of the bridegroom, and members of the wedding party formed the receiving line. Mrs. Fleming was dressed in a white and pink. A sash of orchid and pink chiffon formed the long train and was caught at the waistline with a band of white flowers. Her flowers were caught at the waistline with a band of white flowers. Her flowers were caught at the waistline with a band of white flowers.

Parents and Child Prodigy Living In Squalor Routed by Tear Gas

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 7.—(AP)—A "child prodigy" with long, matted hair and decayed teeth whose 12-year-old mind equals an adult's, his father said, was in detention home tonight, charged with molesting a girl and having a world-wide reputation for the instruments I produce. Fritz Kriesler has complimented my workmanship.

Next morning they gave him another. Mills described the methods used to educate Barton. "He now has the mentality of a 21-year-old youth. I have a make of violins and have a world-wide reputation for the instruments I produce. Fritz Kriesler has complimented my workmanship."

Harvey Robb swore to his delinquency were lodged against the boy's parents.

Truancy and cursing were charged to the boy.

Irvin H. Mills, his violin-making father, and Mrs. Mills posted $1,300 bond in cash, much of it in gold. Water at their three-story gray stone home has been cut off since 1925.

Barton K. Mills, the "prodigy," has never been to school, church or movie. "We taught him ourselves and by travel," Mills said.

He said his son could read when he was two years old, used a typewriter when he was three and wrote descriptive fiction when he was four.

Miss Eva Brown Weds Gus Ellis

The marriage of Miss Eva Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, to Gus G. Ellis, of Chattanooga, was solemnized at the Greek Orthodox church Sunday evening, June 7, by the Rev. Father, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Lilly May Allen, organist, played the nuptial selections and a vocal solo was given by Mrs. Anna Carver.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns, starred with white urns filled with gladioli.

Mrs. Helen Charles Vocals, as matron of honor, was gowned in pink matelasse satin, with white accessories. A spray of gardenias completed the ensemble. Gus Vlass acted as best man.

The radiantly beautiful bride was gowned in ivory satin worn with a tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

She was acted as ushers by her father, James Brown.

Three of the bridesmaids were green net and the other three pink net. The bridesmaids wore white with taffeta jackets, and they wore taffeta hats to match. They carried colonial bouquets.

The bridesmaids were Misses Antigony Papageorge, Helen Pefinis, Sofia Chotas, Margaret Brown, Louise Stephens, and Margaret Hanjars.

The groomsmen included D. Papageorge, Leon Ekeas, Nick and Victor Brown, brothers of the bride; Pete Constantine and George Memalis.

George Papageorge and George Alexander acted as ushers.

Little Theo Vocals acted as ring bearer, entering with Lucille Gerakitis. Flower girls were Miss Asimo Ellis, sister of the groom, and her cousin, Helen G. Ellis.

Small sister of the bride, and Ann Mitchell carried baskets of rose petals.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception at their home. Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. George Ellis, father of the groom; Mrs. Angel Brown, Mrs. Theo Gerakitis.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Ellis and their daughter, Asimo; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ellis and their daughter, Helen, and son, George, from Chattanooga; Bill Soule, of Gainesville; George Smith, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, of Chattanooga.

Mr. Ellis and his bride left for Florida and Cuba. They will make their home in Chattanooga, where Mr. Ellis is in the restaurant business with his father, George Ellis.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered with her father, Malcolm Nassau Fleming, by whom she was given in marriage and met the bridegroom, Gus Vlass, who acted as best man, at the altar. Her stately blonde beauty was a perfect foil for her exquisite wedding gown of shimmering antique satin, made along fashionable and becoming princess lines. The entire waist was made of handsome antique rose point lace which belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Charles Nutting, of Macon. The becoming V-neckline was featured by a row of lace-covered buttons down the back. The handsome court train was four yards long of flat Venise lace threaded in gold. She wore a tulle cap caught to the back of head with a row of orange blossoms from which fell an exquisite antique lace veil. Her only ornament was a family heirloom, a necklace of pearls and diamonds. She carried a flat bouquet of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Fleming entertained at a reception at their home on Seventeenth street, honoring their daughter and Mr. Player, their guests including members of the two families and the wedding party. The lower floor of the home was thrown en suite for the occasion and was beautifully decorated with quantities of variegated summer garden flowers, palms and ferns. The table in the dining room was fringed with a real lace cloth and graced by a beautiful arrangement of white flowers. ## LOANS ON COTTON HELD UNAFFECTED

Cocke Says Commodity Credit Not Overthrown by NRA Decision.

Overthrow of the NRA by the United States supreme court will not affect the Commodity Credit Corporation, which is engaged in making cotton loans to Georgia farmers, among others, it was announced yesterday by Erle Cocke, manager of the Atlanta agency of the RFC and Georgia agent for the credit corporation.

"Many persons apparently believe the Commodity Credit Corporation was a part of the NRA and that the 12-cent cotton loans will cease," Mr. Cocke said.

of the corporation, assured me, however, the 'sick chicken' decision in nowise affects the cotton loans.

The act extending the life of the RFC, approved by President Roosevelt January 31, contains a section authorizing the continuance of the commodity credit extending to April 1, 1937.

The corporation, until April 1, 1937, has been making loans on agricultural commodities, including cotton and corn. More than $50,000,000 has been loaned to Georgia farmers by the corporation.

KIDNAPING OF GIRL CHARGED TO COUPLE

McALESTER, Okla., June 7.—(AP)—Kidnaping charges were filed here today against a husband and wife, Dorothy Hudson in the disappearance December 19, 1934, of Lois Ellen, 13, found yesterday in a rooming house where she appealed to officers for aid.

The girl told the officers she had been taken from her McAlester home to a farmhouse near the town of Fayetteville and forced to do hard work. The Hudson woman allegedly appeared in the rooming house where the girl was living and induced her mother to permit her to take the girl with her to help care for a baby.

NORMANDIE IN QUEST OF RECORD ON RETURN

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—New York made the S. S. Normandie God-speed today as 1,600 passengers swarmed aboard the huge liner for its maiden trip from New York to Le Havre and if maritime men are

The present record is 4 days 17 hours and 45 minutes set by the S. S. Bremen, which set a still faster time for the westbound crossing only to have the Normandie better it.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Anne Austin, the family fortune wiped out by the crash, her mother dead and her father, a New York banker, a suicide, cannot blame action of a wealthy family which moves in the same circles as did the Austins. A score of times she holds off his proposal, the last at a hectic house party given by the Bruno Bealeys, down to her last dime. Anne becomes lady's maid to Mrs. Adolph Hoag, wife of a multimillionaire, whose home is the Palm Beach estate is called Bois Joli. Anne takes the name Anne Hoag but Mrs. Hoag, whom the servants address as Madame, calls her Pili. A fiery red-head, Madame reveals in temperamental scenes, Berta, a maid, is unwarrantably jealous of Anne because of Carl Case, the handsome young chauffeur. Berta tries to hurt Anne with a knife, but Anne escapes. Anne, a maid, is unwarrantably jealous of Anne because of Carl Case, the handsome young chauffeur. in fluttering chiffons that cling to their thin young bodies, their heads so carefully tucked under their long, thin, ringed hands always reaching for something—a glass, a cigarette—a quick caress. And the young men? They were all weedy young at all; all the resiliency of youth worn out of them.

"Ask Mrs. Hoag," a wispily blonde in a black lace frock so revealing that a self-respecting chaste girl would have balked at wearing it in a night club show was saying. "Dolph insists on running us to Miami to some riot or other. He's sure to get rained and spill us out on the road. Why can't we stay here and play, or go somewhere and dance?"

Madame took the thrup Anne handed her. "You're through for the night, Pili," she said. "Berta will help me peel off." Then to the wispily blonde: "I should think you could get canned here as well as in Miami, and be a whole lot safer doing it. However, getting yourself spilled all over the place seems to be part of your fun, so you'll probably go with Dolph. Only don't get your foot selves killed. I don't want a pack of waiting parents coming down on me for news of the massacre, and maybe for damages."

INSTALLMENT XV.

Quiet enough, and peaceful save for the consciousness of Berta's sullen face and occasional snarl; and for the echoes from the revels of Dolph's house guests who overran the place as Madame had predicted, turning day into night and night into day, as though time had ceased to exist except their own ravenous appetites for pleasure.

Was it possible, Anne asked herself, that only a few short months ago she had been a part of such a pleasure-piercing crew? Forever shouting and laughing, drinking from iced glasses, nibbling at food, nibbling at life. Occasional biting into life and bolting what one had bitten quickly, surreptitiously, because it had proven to be bitter, or nauseatingly sweet; snatching at every tiniest morsel that offered a new taste, a new sensation; nibbling at morsels, dropping them thoughtlessly when they lacked tang, flinging them away irritably when they proved distasteful.

Anne kept her distance from these younglings. Fortunately, they were not the "people one knows" in the world that had been hers. She met them in pairs, singly, in the halls when she passed to and from Madame's boudoir. They were not admitted to the round sanctum sanctorum.

"They're a swarm of locusts," Madame shouted. "I'll have to get their rooms, the terrace and the downstairs bar done over when they clear out. They're a new taste, a new sensation; nibbling at morsels, dropping them thoughtlessly when they lacked tang, flinging them away irritably when they proved distasteful."

Once Madame sent for Anne to fetch a wrap to her on the terrace where she was having coffee with the "locusts" after dinner. Anne was as frightened as a flushed partridge. The scene seemed strange to her—the girls there, her ears sharpened for the sound of a footfall on the crushed shell path, her senses drinking in the night perfume of the flowers until she was drowsy, drugged with the scent and the quiet. Then she rose and returned to her room, a little dizzy with the loveliness of the night, a little empty with the loneliness of it.

How much later it was that she heard a car in the drive and saw the blue car flash along the white drive toward the garage, she did not know. She had been sitting by the window, drifting with the moon, and time had ceased to be.

The blue car. Then Carl had been sent with the convoy that carried the "locusts" to their night's feeding ground. That was why he had not found her in the garden. The emptiness, the loneliness were gone. In their place was a delicious warmth, almost an exaltation.

Was there a movement against the green screen down by the garage? Something moving? A figure emerging into the moonlight? Carl, coming toward the house? She moved back into the shadow, behind a curtain.

The figure swung along the path toward the back of the house. Slower now, coming to a stop under her window. She could feel him standing there, listening, his face upturned. Exaltation mounted to a lilt, a clamor of joy. She leaned out of the window and called his name, softly.

"Ann." He cut across his hands to carry the muted name. "What's the big idea, star-gazing at this hour of the morning? It's after three."

For answer, she held up the upturned white blotch with an oiled she had been carrying, unconsciously, since her vigil on the stone bench. He caught it and carried it into the breast pocket of his blouse.

"Good aim," he said. "Everything all right?"

"All is well, but what do you mean by disturbing the meditations of honest servant girls at 3 o'clock in the morning?"

"I've been hauling a load of junk to various local junk heaps," he explained. "A couple of them passed into a state of coma so I hauled them home. I've been uneasy about you all night. Anything happen?"

"Nothing except a moon, some stars and a slight bling from the jasmine and honeysuckle vines in the garden. You'd better get some sleep before the locusts start swarming again."

"I will, now that I know you're only moon-struck. The locusts will be numb until sometime tomorrow afternoon. They've gorged themselves. Good night—Ann." The name was as though he had brushed her lips with his. "No more moon-bling—until I can share it with you."

He was gone, striding along in the wet velvet along the walk that muffled his footfalls.

Anne was so happy she could not sleep, but she found a kind of blissful dream, half-way between sleep and a conscious rehearsal of those moments which had melted to make her happiness.

A week passed, rather lethargically. Bois Joli still swarmed with the locusts. Every day some of them took off on a fresh flight to be replaced by others just as voracious. Madame's temper was getting decidedly edgy under their continued assaults.

"I don't know what Dolph picks 'em up," she complained acutely on a morning after a particularly noisy and upsetting night. She had gone downstairs to find a house boy sweeping up shattered glasses on the terrace and to learn that one of the guests, a flamboyant platinum-headed miss, who had arrived only the day before, had been pulled from the swimming pool at an early morning hour, more dead than alive.

"Drunk," Madame snorted. "Tell in, no doubt, or got pushed. I'll have to keep one of the men on watch at the pool all night."

The next day it was reported to Madame that two valuable bits of bric-a-brac were missing from a cabinet in one of the drawing-rooms—a picture of carved jade and a miniature Sinto temple exquisitely carved in ivory.

"It's one of Dolph's pests," Madame concluded. "They've been souveniring."

"Oh, surely not," Anne protested. She was "feeding Madame the morning pills" from the news and society columns. "Not when you are so kind to them, so generous and hospitable."

"A lot they care for that," Madame scoffed. "They think it's comin' to them. They think all they got to do is help themselves. If you put 'em all on a barge and sink 'em far enough out to sea so they couldn't swim back, it'd be no loss. I never seen anyone like that Dolph for picking trash. You'd think, brought up on a gold spoon like he's been, he'd find a good'oun once in a while. But no. Not him. A lot of buzzies and peewees no one ever heard of before except maybe in the scandal sheets. I've had everything locked up and set a man to watch the silver. There's plenty of it missing, too."

Twice during the week Anne and Carl managed to steal away for those happy intervals which had become the purpose of Anne's living. On her afternoon off, they had gone to Seabach and forgotten there was anything in the world except the plunging green surf that foamed over them, the cool green sea that was a cradle for their young bodies, the clean white sand that warmed and soothed them.

THE WHITE RACE IS NO MORE INTELLIGENT THAN OTHER RACES

After 14 years of careful study which included over 1,000 children of all races and countries, Professor T. R. Garth, of the University of Denver, found that the white race is not superior intellectually, as has always been supposed (by all white people). He concluded his long study by saying "mental differences between the races do not exist," and "if opportunity is equalized, no differences will be seen in the I. Q. (intelligence quotient) of the different races. He admits that there are differences between individuals, but not between races." (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Summer vacation has started for school pupils in many places, and will start for others before long. If you are among the millions of boys and girls who will have more of free time, I hope you will give thought to what you can do with the days ahead.

Just "doing nothing" is a poor way to spend time, except when we are tired. We should play or work or study or read or think.

Summer is a fine time to play. Many persons find it thrilling to take part in baseball games. This may be done on playgrounds or vacant fields. City boys and girls are in danger of accidents in their play on the streets. If they play on ground near a street, they should be careful about running after the ball when it is thrown or knocked where automobiles travel. A player might have his mind on getting the ball, and forget to "look both ways." Many children have been hurt in this manner.

Boys and girls sometimes find it hard to find players for a baseball team; and for little groups of two or three or four. I wish to mention a game which has given me many a pleasant hour. There need be only two players.

Four lines are marked, by using two points (trees may do) 20 or 30 feet apart. One player tosses the ball to the other, who stands at bat. The batter strikes at it, and if he hits a fair ball, the other player tries to catch it or to field it (if it is ground) without fumbling. If the ball is handled properly, it counts as an "out." If it is fumbled, it counts a score for the batter.

There should be a line (say 15 or 20 yards from the batter) to mark the limit to which a fly ball may be struck. If a fly is knocked beyond that line, it counts an out.

Four and strikes may be counted if the players wish. It is well to have a backstop, but in any case the batter goes after the balls which pass him. There are three "outs" in each inning. The game may last anywhere from five to eight innings, as agreed. If there are more than two players, the extra men may take a field. And the limits may be widened. Each goes to bat in turn, and keeps track of his score.
